

Year 6: Relationships

Key Learning

What does it mean to be attracted to someone?

People who love each other can be of any:

- Faith
- Gender
- Ethnicity

Everyone has a right to be loved. There is a difference between gender identity and sexual orientation.

There are different ways in which couples show their love and commitment to one another. There are qualities of healthy relationships that help individuals flourish.

There are ways to get advice and to report concerns about my personal safety, including my safety online.

There are ways to participate effectively in discussions and manage conflicts or disagreements, even online. I am able to:

- Discuss issues respectfully
- Listen to and respect other points of view
- Constructively challenge points of view I disagree with

MARRIAGE AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIPS

To force anyone into marriage is illegal.

A legal declaration of commitment made by two adults.

How and where to report forced marriage or to ask for help if needed.

People have the right to choose whom they marry or whether to get married.

I can assess the risk of different online 'challenges' and 'dares'.

I dare you to...

If someone is put under pressure to do something dangerous and something goes wrong, it is a shared responsibility between everyone involved.

Friendships can be healthy or unhealthy and I can compare the differences between them.

There are ways to recognise and respond to pressure from others to do something unsafe or that makes them feel worried or uncomfortable. I know strategies to respond to pressure from friends, including online.

What is consent? I know what consent means and how to seek and give/not give permission in different situations.

Key Vocabulary

Consent	Agreeing with what is done or suggested by another person.
Pressure	Trying to make someone do something.
Conflicts	A clashing disagreement of ideas or interests between people.
Commitment	A promise to be loyal to someone or something.
